Peek Inside the Book

Then she saw me watching her. For perhaps two seconds our eyes met and held. I knew then why the ancients armed the cruellest god with arrows; I felt the shock of it right through my body. Mary Stewart, The Crystal Cave //

Thinking and planning is one side of life; doing is another. A man cannot be doing all the time. Mary Stewart, The Crystal Cave //

Reader's Opinions

I first read this back in the 70's & it was a favorite. Merlin tells his story from his boyhood. Read by Stephen Thorne, it's even better. Merlin tells this tale in his old age, but usually the story moves along as if it...

A book suffused with myth and magic, but also with that mysterious power that sometimes works in mere humans, gifting them with a kind of vision into things long past or things yet to come. If there ever was a Merlin, Mary Stewart is surely right that he was this kind of man--a seeker of truth and wisdom, who learned or had from youth...
